The university focuses on reducing socio-economic disparities through education, skill development, and outreach initiatives, contributing to sustainable development in the region.

Policy/Guidelines of the Institute

- Support for Low-Income Students: Guidelines are in place to identify and assist students from low-income families through fee waivers, and additional resources.
- Community-Centric Approach: The university prioritizes outreach programs that empower rural and underprivileged populations through education and skill-building initiatives.

Current Interventions

- Scholarship Programs: HBTU offers financial assistance and scholarships to economically disadvantaged students, ensuring access to quality technical education irrespective of financial background.
- Village Adoption Program: The university has adopted five nearby villages, implementing initiatives to improve living standards and economic opportunities in these communities.
- Distribution of Kits: HBTU distributes educational and health kits to Anganwadi workers and school children in adopted villages, supporting early education and well-being.
- Community Outreach: Through programs like National Service Scheme (NSS), HBTU conducts activities such as cleanliness drives and awareness campaigns to foster local economic and social development.

Future Plans

- Expansion of Financial Aid: Increase the scope of scholarships and financial support programs to reach more students from economically weaker sections.
- Vocational Training Centres: Establish technical skill development centres on campus and in adopted villages to enhance employability and entrepreneurship opportunities.
